Course Description

Instructor Steven Stack leads this course in a unique way to teach playwriting. He will show you how to set foundations and guide posts for your students, and then give them freedom to play. The intent is to help students develop their own voice and create for creating sake. The 5 modules lead teachers through how to use this style of teaching playwriting, and includes handouts and resources to support the learning.

About the Instructor

Steven Stack has been teaching students ranging from age 7 to adults for almost 20 years, both within and outside the public education system, and covering topics including math, science, social studies, and health – but his true love is teaching theatre. He’s been involved with theatre for more than 20 years as an instructor, director, playwright, and actor.

Steven has taught for twelve consecutive summers at the Wisconsin Center for Academically Talented Youth (WCATY), working with gifted and talented students in an academically challenging environment where they learn the principles of acting, directing, and playwriting. Working with WCATY and the University of Wisconsin, he also teaches online writing courses to students all over the state of Wisconsin.

He is also a published playwright, having written and directed several full-length plays, countless one-acts and many scenes for various theatres, performing arts schools and professional organizations. His plays have been performed all over the United States, as well as internationally.

Steven is currently the lead acting instructor at Forte Studios in Mount Horeb, Wisconsin, where he has the pleasure of working with amazingly talented actors of all ages.

He thoroughly enjoys teaching, directing, and writing for middle-school students, and that’s been a major focus of his career. His goal in working with that age group is to help students grow into themselves by giving them stories that resonate beyond the stage. Steven believes that the key to helping students become better actors is working with them to understand who they are and helping them bring that experience to the world of the play. He stresses each individual’s contribution to the play, while emphasizing that it’s about everyone, not just any single person. His students are expected to come through for their fellow actors.

Course Curriculum

Module 0: Introduction 15:31

The introductory module introduces the instructor and sets out the objectives and structure for the course.

Module 1: Creating for Creating Sake 16:39

This module focuses on teaching students the act of creating itself - while ridding ourselves of creating for external reasons.

Module 2: The Creative Sandbox: Your Journal 13:55

This module is the creative sandbox: your journal. At the end of this lesson, students will be able to understand and use one of the most important things a writer has: their journal.

Module 3: All About the Play 12:31

This module is about the play. All about the play. This module will focus on why plays exist, what plays are meant to be, and my basic top principals for playwriting. Understanding the foundation of playwriting will create a strong foundation for the student’s playwriting journey.

Module 4: The Non-Truths We Probably Believe 21:01

In this module we’re going to discuss things we think and believe as writers that we probably shouldn’t, expand on where they came from, what the truth is perhaps, and how students can overcome believing these things. The objective of this lesson is to avoid labeling things and see them as they are and focus on creating the work we want to create.

Module 5: The End of the Road 14:43

In this module, we wrap up our journey.
