OVERVIEW: DISTANCE LEARNING

By LINDSAY PRICE AND KAREN LOFTUS

Distance Learning is defined as synchronous activities in an online class session, with some asynchronous assignments to be completed and submitted.

This curriculum was first developed in spring of 2020 to assist teachers in various online/hybrid teaching assignments due to the worldwide pandemic. There continue to be times when students are learning remotely, and as such this curriculum may assist teachers in offering options to in-person learning.

The curriculum offers the following units in a distance learning format. All of these units exist in a traditional drama classroom form on the Drama Teacher Academy site.
